Mixed media on three cradled panels; floated and framed together, approximately 36" tall x 72" wide x 3" deep

This is a colorful and shiny, 3D triptych, full of essential optimism. It's another example of how art gives back – as joy rises when viewing this jewel-toned, shiny artwork, a gift that conveys the sparkly energy of Christmas morning.

Children are natural fans of color and can immediately benefit from Hermine's approach to art, which she calls 'Color as Curative.' Whether to inspire creativity or to support a healing process, this large artwork has the power to change lives!

Hermine Harman is a Maui artist, former social worker, and active supporter of the arts.
